THE MAN IN YOUR LIFE

If you want to

be the best at

your job, you

must practice

constantly.

The more you

practice, the

better you will become.

If you want to

be successful in

business, you

must

continue to learn and grow.

The more you

learn, the more

successful you

will be.

If you want to

be happy and

healthy, you

must take good

care of yourself.

The more you

take care of

yourself, the

happier and

healthier you

will be.

be a good

parent, you

must be there for

your children.

The more you

are there for them, the better

they will

grow.

If you want to

be a good

friend, you

must listen and

support others.

The more you

listen and

support, the

stronger your

relationships

will be.

be a good

spouse, you

must communicate

effectively.

The more you

communicate

effectively, the

more satisfied

you will be in your marriage.

If you want to

be a good

leader, you

must lead by

example.

The more you

lead by example,

the more

people will

follow you.
The Men in Your Life

"Men," says Jean Kerr, "they're a trip who is fun to be with..."

A man, says the ad, "dream, dream, dream, dream, dream."

And, "(success) means being more than money, more than status, more than anything else."

The bond of marriage, says a newspaper, is the bond of friendship with other men. Once you love to Get the idea?

Men, men, men. They're like ice cream. No man can possibly have nothing more than that.

The insurance company who owns the apartment building in which we live, has a slogan that reads, "The men in your life..."

In 1933 the Provisional Mutual Life Company of Philadelphia said, "The men in your life..."

That's what they call it.

But, after all, they're just as important. They're just as important as your husband."

the up-and-coming generation it was difficult to be tall when you were in your teens. you should have tried it in the nineteenth century. she really suffered—not only psychologically (her schoolmates, i had been trying to get her to do it for years), but physically. she was a very tall girl, and she had always been. even in high school, when she was shorter, she was still the tallest girl in the class. but now, at nineteen, she was the shortest girl in the class. it was a terrible blow to her. she had always wanted to be tall, and now she was the shortest. it was a dreadful blow to the mother, who had assumed the child would be all but finished growing. "i had wanted my beautiful child to be all the things i am not," she said. "and now i must face the hard reality that of course, since i am her mother, she can never be anything except all the things i am. it is not the sins of the fathers that are visited inevitably on the children." it was hard at first, when she thought she was the only one who was doing carefully, since her mother was fifty years younger.

life is never easy; it is always just more of the same. this mother had made her own adjustment and was now faced with the need to use in helping her daughter. the child was no longer an infant, but a young girl, who had to be prepared to face the world on her own.
