Since you are now the experts on the primary sources provided, you will be sharing your knowledge with the rest of the class in a brief presentation. Since your classmates have not read these documents, you will need to provide them with all the information you think is necessary.

Your 20 minute presentation should

- Describe in detail each of the primary source documents you read;
- Detail the validity and reliability of the source (Is it a police officer? A batterer? A survivor?)
- Be organized and clear
- Be presented in a professional manner
  - polished tone
  - easy to understand
  - good eye contact
  - confident demeanor
- Discuss how each group members’ views have changed or stayed the same based on the primary source documents.
- Answer any questions classmates may have about your packet.
